Cycling for health

Cycling is fun, fast, flexible and free (well, almost!). It is an excellent way to keep fit. A regular cyclist in mid-adulthood is typically as fit as someone 10 years younger and will suffer fewer of the diseases afflicting the obese.

The wider benefits of cycling are to help improve our streets, communities and the environment; tackling everything from congestion, pollution, noise, road danger and the school run to climate change.

Cycling is one of the best ways of replacing the 60% of car trips that are under 5 miles.

Cycling with care

The route has been assessed by Gloucestershire Road Safety Audit Team who recommend the route be travelled in an anti-clockwise direction, with 5 junctions being safer in that direction, as opposed to 3 junctions being safer in the clockwise direction.

The lanes are shared with other vehicles so please take care. Wear brightly coloured clothing and use lights after dark so you can be seen.
